Crystal Skelley

Crystal Skelley was born in Illinois, migrated to California via Arizona. Her painting reflects her life in these areas.

Since childhood, the artist has had a burning desire to share with others the world as she sees it. Her expressions in art are extremely versatile. Through her technique of sharp focus realism, florals become "portraits" and snow scenes and landscapes appear "three dimensional".

Although she received early training at the Art Institute in Chicago, Harrison Commercial Art, and the University of Arizona, she is mainly self taught. She has received numerous awards for her work since high school.

Crystal Skelley's paintings are widely held throughout the United States, Canada, and Japan.

*Using a remarkable new process, fine art reproductions of the originals, printed in non-bleed, non-fading ink, are chemically treated, enabling an authentic transfer of the exact colors to artist's canvas. Through this unique process, a reproduction becomes a "lifetime lithograph" as durable, cleanable, and lasting as an oil painting.

Each canvas is personally hand finished by the artist, producing an individualized work of art known exclusively as a "CRYSTALGRAPH".
